Notes:

For configuring your email client, the account name or username is the full email address, so for example, careers@ would be careers@greatteams.co.uk etc.

Each of these email accounts have initially been set up with a limit of 20mb storage each. This storage space is deducted from the total storage available. You can alter these limits from within the cPanel.

Databases can also be set up and configured from within the cPanel.

For the domain to resolve correctly, you will need to change your nameservers from within your domain registrar's control panel.
